KENTUCKY WESLEYAN ADOPTS SYSTEM USED BY UNIVERSITIES

Methodist College is the Only One in Kentucky Using System Now in Use by All the Greater Universities of the Nation.

Registration for the Winter Quarter of the Kentucky Wesleyan College, Winchester, Ky., will be held Monday, November 28th, and the regular class work will begin Tuesday, November 29th. Under the new Quarter System recently adopted at Wesleyan a student may enter at the opening of any quarter and take up the work for a degree without loss of time or being inconvenienced in making out a schedule. The Quarter System is now being used in the leading universities of the north and east.

Thirty courses will be offered when college work is resumed for the second division of the school year. Twenty-one of the thirty courses will be open to new students, the remaining nine courses being a continuation of work begun at the opening of school in September. Courses in English Composition, The Hebrew Prophets, Trigonometry, Latin Syntax, and Beginning German will be open to Freshmen, while the other courses are primarily for upper classes.

The following is a summary of the courses offered for the Winter Quarter: English Composition, American Literature, Shakespeare, New Testament Greek, Greek Grammar, Analysis, Latin Syntax, Latin Syntax, Scribes, Beginning German, Advanced Reading in German, French Readings, Advanced French Readings, Modern European History, Comparative Government, Money and Currency, The Hebrew Prophets, The Christian Faith, Principles of Teaching, Psychology of Childhood, Trigonometry, Differential Calculus, General Physics, General Chemistry, Organic Chemistry (Aliphatic Compounds), Quantitative Analysis, Botany, Zoology, Bacteriology.

A peculiar degree of interest is taken by Maysvillians and Masonians in Kentucky Wesleyan just now because Dr. Will B. Campbell, former local pastor, is president and Prof. H. M. Pyles, Jr., of this county, is a member of the faculty.

SALESMAN'S SAMPLE CASE IS STOLEN FROM PORCH

Empty Case Found in Baseball Park and Sample Trousers Found on Forest Avenue.

A sample case containing many articles of wearing apparel was stolen from the front porch at the home of Mr. William Darnall, traveling salesman for the David Ades Company, manufacturing tailors, at No. 1012 East Second street early Sunday evening.

Mr. Darnall in reporting the theft to the police Monday morning stated that he had set his sample case on the front porch of his home shortly before nine o'clock Sunday evening and when at about 9 o'clock he went to pick up the case, found it missing.

The empty suit case was found later in the baseball park, all of its contents having been stolen and the case discarded. Mr. Reuben Worthington, who lives in Eastland, early Monday morning found a pair of trousers, a part of the sample case's contents, lying on Forest avenue at the mouth of Clark street.

Police suspect home talent and expect little trouble in running down the thieves.

REPUTATION

Is something that you don't have to lose before you realize its value. It is worth as much to every man as to every woman—and that's a good deal. "Reputation" is a fighting word for every daughter of Eve, even though her assailant be one of her own family. See Priscilla Dean in "Reputation" at the Pastime Wednesday and Thanksgiving day. A big fat turkey will be given away Wednesday night, after the first showing of "Reputation."

BURLEY SECTION IS DIVIDED INTO 22 DISTRICTS FOR WORK

Fayette, Bourbon, Shelby, Scott and Mason Are So Large That They Are Made Separate Districts—Committees at Work.

Lexington, Ky., Nov. 21. — The burley tobacco district of Kentucky, Ohio and Indiana was divided into twenty-two district Saturday night by the committee on districting and elections, but the date of the elections was not agreed upon, being left to a later meeting of the committee.

Decision in the matter of the districts came after three days of deliberation, in which an effort was made to harmonize all differences of opinion as to what plan was best in the alignment of the counties. The committee's decision was unanimous, and came after three days of deliberation.

The committee is composed of T. S. Burnam, of Madison county, chairman; Bush W. Allin, of Mercer; Martin L. Harris, of Indiana; Albert Day, of Mason; Joseph Passonneau, organization manager, of Fayette.

The counties of Fayette, Bourbon, Shelby, Mason and Scott are made separate districts. Another district is composed of the counties of Ohio in the burley belt and still another is composed of the Indiana counties.

The districts, as finally agreed upon and announced Saturday night, are as follows:

District 1, Fayette; 2, Bourbon; 3, Shelby; 4, Mason; 5, Scott; 6, State of Ohio; 7, State of Indiana; 8, Woodford and Franklin; 9, Owen and Carroll; 10, Henry and Trimble; 11, Grant, Gallatin, Boone, Kenton and Campbell; 12, Harrison and Pendleton; 13, Bracken, Robertson and Nicholas; 14, Bath and Montgomery; 15, Fleming, Lewis, Carter and Greenup; 16, Garrard, Lincoln and Casey; 17, Boyle and Mercer; 18, Anderson, Washington, Marion, Taylor and Green; 19, Jessamine, Madison, Rockcastle, Jackson and Laurel; 20, Spencer, Jefferson, Bullitt, and Nelson; 21, Hardin, Hart, Meade, Breckinridge, Grayson, Barren, Cumberland, Metcalfe and Larnie; 22, Clark, Powell, Menifee and Estill.

"Every committee is busily at work on the city assigned it," said Organization Manager Joseph Passonneau, of the Burley Tobacco Growers' Cooperative Association, on the developments in the tobacco situation.

"We are doing our best to do what is best for all the growers," Mr. Passonneau said. "The number of persons interested directly, the still larger number interested indirectly and the effect upon the entire element of the burley district make it imperative that we proceed carefully and cautiously. We are endeavoring to do that and to consider every possible advantage for the new association in what we shall do in the committees."

AUTO AND BUGGIES COME TOGETHER.

An automobile driven by Mr. Everett Wiggins collided with two buggies driven by Sam Dickson and Perry Lawrence in Third street between Market and Court Sunday evening at about 7 o'clock. After striking the Dickson buggy and badly demolishing it, the auto driver turned his machine and struck the Lawrence buggy only lightly. The accident was a most peculiar one and fortunately no one was injured.

DARK TOBACCO MARKET IS OPENED TODAY

Tobacco Experts Expect Prices on the Dark Tobacco to Open Today at Least $10 Higher Than Last Year.

Owensboro, Ky., Nov. 21. — Sunday night on every road leading to Owensboro was heard the rumble of wagons bringing to market a portion of what is said to be one of the best crops of tobacco ever grown in the Green River district. Monday morning the Owensboro market opened on seven loose leaf floors.

Indications last night were that more than a half million pounds of the dark weed will be sold on the opening day. There was more than 100,000 pounds of tobacco already on the floors ready for sales to begin last night and the steady stream of wagons continued until after daylight.

The all-absorbing question among the growers is the price that the tobacco will bring. During the last few days speculators have been in the country attempting to buy tobacco at the barns. In several instances $20 a hundred pounds has been paid for crops. All indications point to prices at least $5 to $10 higher than those offered last year when an average of $750 was made on the season's crop.

Owensboro buyers say that good leaf and lugs will bring higher prices this year, but there will not be a greater demand for trash. The Green River crop of tobacco will run about 30,000,000 pounds this season, it is estimated. This is a short crop, but of unusually fine quality.

FUR DEALER CHARGED WITH TRIPLE MURDER

Man, Crazed By Drink, Charged With Killing Divorced Wife, Mother-in-law and Visitor at Wilmington.

Wilmington, Ohio, Nov. 21. — Oliver Vandervort, 32 years old, who claims to be a fur dealer of this city, was being held under a murder charge in the Clinton county jail here today following a triple murder at Cuba, a village near here, Saturday night. Vandervort denies the charge.

Those murdered were Bertha Whitlow Vandervort, 30, his divorced wife and mother of Vandervort's three children; Mrs. Jeff Whitlow, 57, mother of Mrs. Vandervort, and Howard Hosier, 24, said to have been a caller on Mrs. Vandervort.

Mrs. Whitlow, before dying from her wounds, the police said, declared that Vandervort committed the murders. The police say that she told them Vandervort came to her home while intoxicated and started a quarrel which ended in the shooting of the three.

Rodney Wallace, a farmer living near the Whitlow home, informed the authorities Monday that Vandervort, while crazed by drink, shot him Saturday night. A postmortem examination will be held today to determine if the same caliber bullets killed the three persons and injured Wallace.

JAMES J. OWENS FILES CONTEST IN THE CIRCUIT COURT

Present County Clerk Contests Election of Mr. Andrew M. January in Suit Filed Saturday Evening Asking Re-Count.

Suit was filed in the Mason Circuit Court late Saturday evening by County Clerk James Owens contesting the election of Mr. Andrew M. January by a majority of one vote in the November election charging certain alleged irregularities in some twenty-two of the precincts of the county.

The petition, which is a very lengthy affair goes into detail in the various precincts. Attorneys Slattery & Rees and Stanley F. Reed represent the contestant. The Republicans have employed Senator E. L. Worthington, LeWright Browning, A. D. Cole and James M. Collins.

Answer will be filed by Mr. January's attorneys within the time limit and the case will go on the docket of the December term of the Mason Circuit Court and have right-of-way over the other cases on the docket which means that it will be called for trial during the first of December. Circuit Judge C. D. Newell will not preside in the case as he is disqualified by being on the same ticket and having contributed to the campaign fund. Governor Morrow will therefore be called upon to appoint a special judge to try the case.

MISS RAPPE'S DYING STATEMENT IS READ.

San Francisco, Nov. 21. — The voice of Virginia Rappe came from her grave today to accuse Roscoe Arbuckle, her alleged slayer.

Her death bed statement, in which she charged the film comedian to be responsible for her fatal injuries was presented by the prosecution.

Arbuckle steeled himself for the most trying ordeal he has under gone since his trial opened on a charge of manslaughter. He kept his film smile firmly set as the words of the dead girl were uttered in court.

"Arbuckle hurt me," almost the last words of the dying actress, were reiterated by nurses who attended her in her final moments.

Crowds stormed the courtroom long before the doors opened, eager to see Arbuckle as central figure in a real life tragedy. Police had difficulty opening a path through the throng so Mrs. Minta Durfee Arbuckle, the comedian's wife, could get into the hall of justice.

THE MENTOR OF BRYN MAWR'S DAUGHTERS.

Were Miss M. Carey Thomas, president of Bryn Mawr College, but one individual in the group of radicals that infest our country, her utterances would call for no special comment. But she happens to be the directing head of an exclusive young ladies' school, where about 500 misses from the best homes of the country are receiving the instruction that will guide them in their future roles as mothers of American families. More than a passing interest is aroused, therefore, when she denounces the teaching of patriotism and Americanism, reverence for the Constitution, and love for the flag. The fact that Miss Thomas spent four years of her younger life at the University of Leipzig may account somewhat for her state of mind today, but it does not lessen her responsibility as a teacher of future citizens of the United States. After advocating that all test books should be rewritten to meet the present-day intellectual advance of student bodies, Miss Thomas spoke as follows:

"But this new and almost universal appreciation of the power of education has brought upon us what I regard as the most terrible menace to American schools and colleges and to free and liberal thought that has come in my lifetime. The Federal and State Governments, Boards of Education, Americanization societies, American Legions and organizations of every kind are demanding that children and college students should be taught patriotism, concrete citizenship and 100 per cent. Americanism. This means that school teachers and college professors, as yet only in public schools and state universities, but unless the movement is determinedly opposed sooner or later everywhere, are being required to teach not how to make things as they should be, but that things as they are are right; that the United States Constitution, as written 134 years ago, is perfect; that our highly unsatisfactory government must not be criticized; that the United States flag, which, as we all know, flies over many cruel injustices which we hope to set right, must be revered as a sacred symbol of unchanging social order, of political death in life."

It will come somewhat as a shock to learn that the teaching of patriotism, citizenship, and Americanism is a "most terrible menace to American schools." Heretofore it has been the conviction of our leaders of thought that the teaching of such subjects had a directly opposite tendency to that stated by Miss Thomas. Perfect American patriotism among all classes of our citizens is an ideal to be sought but probably never achieved. To teach it is distinctly an effort "to make things as they should be." No American patriot will contend for a moment that "things as they are are right." The very existence of a Congress engaged in enacting legislation to meet recognized evils is sufficient evidence of that fact. Were our laws completely sufficient there would be no necessity for change. Let Miss Thomas question the fathers of some of her students. She will find that while they are patriots themselves and want their daughters taught Americanism, they are far from believing that Democratic tax laws as they are right.

The Constitution, according to this new-thought educator, is 134 years old and, therefore, not perfect. Perhaps not, but it is as nearly perfect as human genius and the necessity of compromising the wishes of 100,000,000 people can make it. Viscous Bryce, who can scarcely be charged with biased Americanism, says the American Constitution is the greatest document ever turned out by the hand of man. If Miss Thomas' teachings were to attain a similar approach to perfection there could be little fault found with her. She should reflect that it is the Constitution and the laws enacted thereunder that have made possible such institutions of learning as Bryn Mawr, and that guarantee immunity to herself when she indulges in radicalisms such as those quoted.

"MORE DAYS, JUDGE."

The following front page editorial in Thursday's Cincinnati Post applies quite as well to Maysville as to Cincinnati:

"Five days in jail are not enough for a man who drives an automobile when drunk. Judge Samuel W. Bell of Municipal Court has just given five-day sentences to two drunken drivers.

Five days are scarcely time enough for a man to pass in serious contemplation of the crime of driving a machine while drunk. A machine with a drunken driver at the wheel is like a machine without steering gear running through the streets.

"More days, judge!"

REED'S SPOKESMEN

Probably the most verbose statesman on the floor of the Senate is Reed of Missouri, picturesque frequently, but like Tennyson's brook, going on forever. Ashurst, one of his Democratic colleagues, sped a shaft into Reed recently. Ashurst wanted evening debate on the tax bill and Reed remarked: "The Senator wants it to go on night and day. We have to work would like to have a little time to sleep and a little time to reflect and study." To which Ashurst replied: "They sleep while the Senator is speaking." If they do they get more than the required eight hours.

FIGURES DISPROVE

Persons interested in getting Cuban sugar into this country at the least possible cost are claiming that the emergency tariff law is killing the business. That law became effective May 27, last. In September of this year we imported 235,000,000 pounds of sugar from Cuba, under the 20 per cent. preferential, compared with 170,000,000 for September, 1920, when the emergency law was not in effect. That doesn't bolster up the argument of the Cuban sugar importers.

A national organization, of well-known free trade proclivities, recently sent a series of questions to 300 "economists." It is a safe bet that not one in ten of the "economists" ever ran a factory or met a pay-roll.

FARM AND HOME NEWS FROM OVER KENTUCKY.

Whitley county farmers will use an increased amount of limestone on their fields this fall in order to increase crop yields, a report from County Agent W. B. Woodward states. A recent campaign to arouse interest in the use of this fertilizer resulted in an order for three carloads from the county.

Thirty-five Ohio county poultry flocks have been enrolled in the winter egg laying project being conducted over the state by the extension division of the College of Agriculture, according to a report from County Agent B. B. McInteer.

Plans are being made by farm women of Simpson county to take up clothing efficiency work being conducted over the state by Miss Helen Harriman, field agent in clothing from the College of Agriculture. The women will be shown how to make clothing quickly, easily and with good results in a series of three meetings to be held during November, December and January.

Projects outlined for junior agricultural club members are attracting increased attention from farm boys and girls in Fayette county, a report from County Agent W. R. Gabbert states. The enrollment of youngsters in clubs of the county is expected to be increased 75 per cent. during the coming year.

The necessities of millinery for rural women has aroused considerable interest in Calloway county, according to a report of Miss Irene Pledale, field agent in clothing from the College of Agriculture. Eleven women have made attractive hats in three classes conducted in the county.

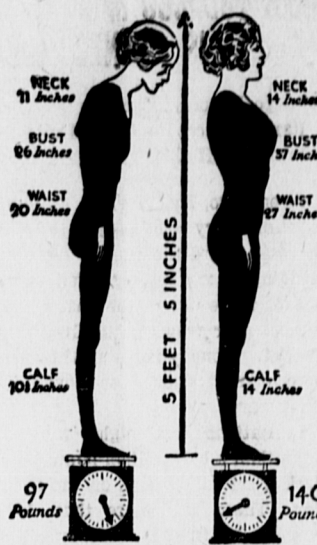

Community organization and spirit is filling an important place in the development of agricultural interests in Livingston county, a report from County Agent L. C. Pace states. Two more community clubs, one at Corinth and another in the Pan Handle vicinity were recently added to these already existing in the county.

W. E. Abbell and D. A. Dunn, Livingston county farmers, will conduct wheat variety demonstrations this year in co-operation with the extension division of the College of Agriculture and County Agent L. C. Pace for the purpose of determining the varieties of grain best suited to the county.

DAIRY FARMERS HAVE RARE SOIL BUILDING ADVANTAGES.

Dairy farmers in Kentucky have an exceptional opportunity of building up the poor soils and improving the good ones on their farms by giving sufficient attention to the care and saving of manure produced by the cows in their herds, specialists on farm problems say. A well-fed dairy cow will produce approximately twelve tons of manure each year, ten tons of which should be saved to place on cultivated fields since the animals are housed at least six of the twelve months. This can be accomplished only by saving the liquid as well as the solid manure since fully one-half the manure's value is in the liquid. The dairy industry in Kentucky which is now recognized as an important aid to soil building has 650,000 cows as its Manure saving presents a complex problem to the dairyman inasmuch as he wishes to produce clean milk as well as retain the fertility of his farm. The manure must be removed daily from the stall and provisions made other than an open barnyard for preserving it until it is spread on the field. A successful dairyman will have a tight floor in his barn which is usually made of concrete and contains a gutter with proper drainage from behind the animals. For sanitary reasons the drainage is desirable but since the liquid contains valuable fertilizing elements it must be saved if the system is to be economical. This can be accomplished by emptying the drain into a pit or cistern built near the barn where the solid manure together with the straw bedding is stored until the dairyman is ready to haul it to the field. In order to operate this system with the least trouble it is necessary to have a track and litter carried from the barn to the pit. A system of this kind will require the use of a large amount of bedding, eight to ten pounds of straw daily for each cow being a good amount to use.

A covered shed for storing manure may be made with a large floor space and then used for a stock shelter, this arrangement making it possible for the stock to keep the manure packed so as to exclude air and preserve it in better condition. A shed 12 feet wide and 20 feet long provided with a tight floor should be large enough for a 20-cow dairy and give satisfactory results, according to specialists at the College of Agriculture. Another method for saving manure is to build a concrete basin about two feet deep without any roof where the manure can be stored until it is hauled and spread. This is an inexpensive and efficient method for preserving the material.

 Fred Dresel, proprietor tailor shop, 1238 East Second street, Maysville, says: "I am glad of the opportunity to recommend Doan's Kidney Pills. I was troubled with inflammation of the bladder and annoyance from my kidneys. When passing the secretions they burned terribly and often bordered on a stoppage. I had severe aching pains across the small of my back which greatly interfered with my duties. I was telling a friend how my kidneys acted and he advised me to get a box of Doan's Kidney Pills at Wood & Son's Drug Store. I began taking Doan's and they gave me prompt relief. Doan's did me lots of good and I know they are an excellent remedy."

Mr. Dresel gave the above statement February 6, 1908, and on November 23, 1920, he said: "I think just as highly of Doan's Kidney Pills today as I did when I gave my former recommendation many years ago. My cure has been a lasting one."

New York Letter

by Lucy Jeanne Price

New York. — Like the proverbial cobbler, the best known American newspaper and magazine authority on automobiles, is without a single motor car to his name. George W. Sutton, Jr., one of our citizens, writes a million words a month about them, although he has none of his own. He frankly admits that he cannot afford one, and strangely enough after his glowing accounts, month after month, in most of the magazines, he has never been offered a sample model by the all too ungrateful manufacturers. But this fact has not deterred him; his book, "How to Run Your Car", is an authority for drivers and owners alike. It is a safe guess that Mr. Sutton is not very sorry about the automobile business being affected by the present financial and industrial depression.

Heywood Brown is taking a lot of joshing these days because of an innocent professor of English from Columbia, assigning him as a topic of description to a group of embryo authors. It all came about through one of the department stores having a "Booklover's Week," and using a personal appearance of Brown as an added attraction. But the joke is, that, according to the writers his appearance did not hold up. One student suggested that he should carry a pocket bomb and get a shine now and then. Another described him as a "monstrous slouching figure," with clothes, exclusive of circles of West 59th street and upper Seventh avenue. Oh, yes, a few did speak of his critical abilities, but we all agreed on that, but hitherto fast friends are separating on the clothes question.

—NY—

More than $5,000,000 has already been subscribed toward America's greatest co-operative enterprise, the Hotel Commonwealth, now being built on Fifty-sixth street, between Broadway and Seventh avenue. This is probably the largest amount ever subscribed in a co-operative enterprise in this country and represents the investment of 26,000 persons living in every state and practically all foreign countries. It is expected that the first half of the hotel will be open in June, 1923, with more than 75,000 owner-members. The co-operative plan is based on the club membership idea and in addition to dividends each stockholder will receive up to twenty per cent. rebates on all money spent at the hotel for food and lodging. The shopping bureau of the hotel now includes more than 150 of the city's leading stores and these allow a twenty per cent. rebate on all purchases made by shareholders. The hotel will occupy the entire block between Fifty-fifth and Fifty-sixth streets and Broadway and Seventh avenue, and will be more than thirty stories high.

—NY—

No one will be more welcome during the mid-season of the theatrical year on his return to the New York stage than William Gillette, who is soon to appear in "The Dream Maker," a play in which he is co-writer with Howard E. Morton. Mr. Gillette represents that fast-disappearing school of middle aged players who are affectionately described by the matinee audiences as "graying over the temples." Certainly he belongs to the "gentleman type" of player and few recollections of the state are as pleasant as the memory of him in "Dear Brutus." He is also of "Sherlock Holmes" fame and I predict that the first night clan will be gathered en masse for his welcome.

—NY—

Some fussy folk in New York pride themselves in keeping their names out of the telephone directory to avoid the annoyance which comes with everything from home folks in town to local charity appeals. It is my experience that most of these people who are so exclusive about their telephone number stay up at night to pass the number around to everyone who may be in the least interested. But a more practical excuse for absence from this "proof-readers' marvel book" is the relief it gives from doing jury service. The court bailiffs find it easy to run through the book when estimable citizens shirk this duty of citizenship, and pick out more unwilling victims who, in turn, plead with the judge to let off "just this one time." It is odd that the convenience in appearing in the directory would be offset by so deliberate a dodge of duty.

Louisville. — Jack O'Leary, 19, one of the seven prisoners being taken from Lake county to the Indiana reformatory, Jeffersonville, jumped from a Pennsylvania train at Edinburg, Ind. Though handcuffed, he dived through a window which had been opened when the train stopped at the station. He was captured after a short chase and had suffered, it was found, only a few scratches.

UNCLE TED'S BED-TIME STORIES.

Hughes and Harding Make Big Hit At Opening of Conference.

"Believe me, he sure did tell them exactly what ought to be done," said Jack, speaking of the opening of the conference on the limitation of armament, and the address made by Secretary of State Hughes.

"Yes, and our President made a wonderful talk, too, so Uncle Ted told me," said Ruth.

"Let's get him to tell us about those talks," said Jack.

After the usual teasing, Uncle Ted consented to tell them something about the opening of the arms conference.

"Kiddies, it was a wonderful sight, that opening of the greatest meeting of countries ever attempted in the interest of practical steps toward peace. The whole meeting was mighty impressive, particularly so because of the simplicity of the events. Usually when nations gather about the table of diplomacy there must be lengthy speeches of welcome and talk on all kinds, especially the first day, with nothing accomplished until later, if then. But that is NOT what happened at this meeting. The entire gathering was greatly surprised when Secretary Hughes, the temporary chairman, (who was later chosen permanent chairman) arose and gave a definite program for the limitation of naval armament. The program which was concise and to the point was positive evidence of the good faith of the United States in calling the conference, for it shows that we are ready to act toward actually reducing armament."

"Can you tell us what Mr. Hughes suggested be done?" asked Jack.

"Just this: That for at least ten years the countries agree to a naval holiday, when no more capital ships (big ships) shall be built. That would mean the saving of millions of dollars that the people must now pay in taxes. Further than that he suggested that all capital shipbuilding programs now in progress, that is, ships either being built or planned, shall be abandoned. In addition to this he would reduce the navies even further by scrapping (destroying) certain other older ships. All of these suggestions had to do with the United States, Great Britain and Japan and would leave the navies in this order: Great Britain, United States and then Japan. If this plan is carried out the amount of tonnage to be destroyed by the United States would be $45,740. That of Great Britain, $38,375. and of Japan, $44,928."

"Now children the best part of all these plans as laid down by Mr. Hughes, is, that the countries interested accept the principle of the plans. For example here is what Prince Tokugawa, the head of the Japanese delegation said: 'The proposition that was submitted to the conference by Secretary Hughes, is the most complete and logical that I have ever heard.' When Arthur J. Balfour, acting head of the British delegation, spoke on the plan he stated that no matter what might happen in the natural discussions of it, 'that structure will remain as it was presented by its original architects, for the admiration and for the use of mankind.' In addition to these bright signs of hope for a real settlement of this great question is the pledged support of France and Italy to the proposals, whose cases will be taken up later in the conference because of the peculiar condition as a result of the war with Germany."

"Didn't President Harding make a talk, too?" asked Ruth.

"Yes, indeed he did," answered Uncle Ted. "He opened the first session with one of the finest talks a President ever made. In many ways to me, it is a masterpiece. I want to read you something from it, although you may have heard it before, yet it is surely worth repeating. Listen: 'Gentlemen of the conference, the United States welcomes you with unselfish hands. We harbor no fears; we have no sordid ends to serve; we suspect no enemy; we contemplate or apprehend no conquest. Content with what we have, we seek nothing which is another's. We only wish to do with you that finer, noble thing which no nation can do alone.'

"We wish to sit with you at the table of international understanding and good will. In good conscience we are eager to meet you frankly, and invite and offer co-operation. The world demand a sober contemplation of the existing order and the realization that there can be no cure without sacrifice, not by one of us, BUT BY ALL OF US."

"That, children, tells us the whole story. It is not necessary for any nation to surrender any rights or cut down its freedom. All that is necessary is to make, as the President says, a 'sober contemplation' of the present status of things as they are today and to give up enough of fighting machines to start on the road which will lead to the end of war and the rainbow of peace—PEACE obtained sensibly and practically, and not peace in name at the expense of fine phrases."

WHAT THIRTY

BILLIONS WILL DO.

Washington, D. C. — If limitation of armaments can check war or reduce the danger of war, or reduce the expense of military preparedness, it will be well worth while, even if it does not accomplish all that might be hoped for. It declares the Republican Publicity association. Aside from their own national honor and safety, there is scarcely anything the people of this nation want more than they want relief from tax burdens and the destructiveness of war.

Counting the cost in money only, the European war cost the United States more than $30,000,000,000 — a hundred times as much as the cost of building the Panama Canal, considered in its time one of the greatest undertakings the United States might assume.

What would not thirty billion dollars do?

Thirty billion dollars would buy all the railroads of the United States, free from debt, and leave ten billion dollars for betterments.

Thirty billion dollars would build 500,000 miles of the best highway, at a cost of $50,000 per mile — highway enough to lay fifty national highways across the country East and West, and fifty similar highways across the country North and South.

Thirty billion dollars would build and equip a college in each of the states and in Hawaii and the Philippines at a cost of $200,000,000 each and leave twenty billions with which to erect and equip one hundred thousand and high schools at $200,000 each.

Thirty billion dollars would accomplish anything that could be devised by the most ardent advocate of public improvements, so far as money could attain the end.

When the American people contemplate what might be done with the amount of money we have just spent on war, they will stop at nothing short of yielding of national honor and safety in the effort to secure the assurance of permanent peace.

The League of Nations was proposed as an assurance of peace, but, believing that it was a supreme sacrifice of national independence on the one hand, and a source of war on the other, the voters of America rejected it by an overwhelming vote at the polls. The turned over to the opponents of the League of Nations the power to speak for this nation in an effort to promote world peace and world disarmament, and with that power goes a measure of responsibility. The United States and its spokesmen cannot alone secure world peace or limit tation of armament. Neither can this nation be held responsible for failure of the present conference, unless the course pursued by our representatives shall be such as to prevent agreement without just cause.

Counting the cost of war, in suffering and loss of life as well as in money, and feeling the burden of taxation incident to military preparedness, the American people are willing that their representatives shall go to the utmost extent consistent with honor and safety in the effort to make the conference a complete success.

MOVIELAND NOTES.

Ruth Roland is surrounded by a carefully selected cast of all star calibre in her next serial, "The Timber Queen," production of which began on September 26 at the Hal E. Roach studios. Bruce Gordon, Cal Cleveland and Frank Lackteen and her leading male support, Fred W. Jackson, directs. Frank Hampton is production manager of the company.

Marie Mosquini says the actress and her pocketbook could soon be parted. She adds that if the "nerve" of some people could be capitalized, they would be millionaires. A man thirty years old, who says he is a six footer, wrote the actress recently from Brooklyn, N. Y., that he would like to have her pay his fare to Los Angeles and get him a job in pictures. In the same mail came a request from Houston, Texas, for an elaborate wardrobe and a year's schooling in the East. About two weeks ago, she had an opportunity to found a hospital in Augusta, Me., for stray dogs.

Harold Lloyd is more of a human dynamo than ever in the production of "A Sailor-Made Man." His powers as a gymnast are apparently inexhaustible. He has taken fourteen-foot jumps clambered up the sides of huge edifices, and his latest outpouring of energy is expended in pole vaulting, his record being a thirteen foot vault.

Harry "Snub" Pollard was asked the other day what was his favorite role in his comedies.

"Hen-pecked husband," said Snub. "I like to play that immensely because I'm a bachelor."

"Sunshine Sammy," eight-year-old colored starlet, who has appeared in numerous Hal E. Roach comedies, is probably the best chaperoned youngster in pictures, for his "daddy" is always with him. No matter how distant the location or long the day, the two "pals" are always together. "Joey" Morrison, the father, has a thriving grocery business, but this is left in charge of a brother when "Sunshine" is in a picture. Then "Joey" makes it his business that "Sunshine" never gets temperamental and minds his director that he eats the right things and when there are off times that he studies his lessons. A tutor is always along, for "Sunshine" is not only pursuing his education but is ahead of children his own age.

STALE BLOOD AFFECTS FEELINGS

Pepto-Mangan Makes Red Blood, Restores Healthy Glow.

It is gradually, very gradually, that the effects of weakened blood become apparent. Generally there is a feeling of lassitude. It is like a harmless, lazy heaviness, and the complexion becomes muddy.

Gude's Pepto-Mangan is the very first thing a woman should think of taking for a stale-looking complexion. It drives out the poisons that ruin complexions.

But it is not only the effect that Gude's Pepto-Mangan has upon the complexion that makes it so valuable. New healthy blood causes an improvement in feelings, a return to the usual style of enthusiasm, a sensation of warmth and glow, an appetite that eagerly awaits eating time.

Gude's Pepto-Mangan makes new blood. It comes in liquid, or table form, both having the same medicinal value. The full name, "Gude's Pepto-Mangan," is on every package.—Advertisement.

HEALTH EXAMINATION OF THE COUNTY SCHOOLS FINISHED

County Health Department Gives Final Report of Examination of 1801 County School Students During Past Weeks.

The results of the physical examination of the school children of the county schools is given below. In all twenty-eight schools, the total number of schools for white children were visited. The report for the Maysville City Schools has already been published.

Total number of pupils present and examined, 1801; number showing defects, 945; number free from defects, 856; defects of vision, 145; strabismus 3; trachoma, 116; conjunctivitis, 81; defective hearing, 12; diseased tonsils, 250; enlarged glands, 2; adenoids, 12; goitre, 3; defective teeth, 1124; number pupils having defective teeth, 524; pyorrhea, 2; impetigo, 9; scabies, 10; ringworm, 1; pediculosis, 13; defective speech, 9; malnutrition, 21; total defects, 1892; not vaccinated against small-pox, 1464.

The most outstanding facts to be gleaned from this report are the great number of dental defects found. These are easily remedial and the parents of the children have been notified and in a gratifying number of cases, the defects have been corrected. The large number of diseased tonsils merits special attention. This condition often accompanies a lowered physical condition and such a child offers less resistance to a communicable disease. Seventy-eight cases of trachoma have already been operated upon and very soon all known cases in the county will be under treatment. The most glaring condition, not however classified as a defect, is the great number of children in the county unprotected from small-pox. A campaign of education in this direction has been started. Sixty pupils in the Eastland school, on their parents' request, were vaccinated last week. Rectorville school also has a high percentage of vaccinated pupils. Five schools in the county had not a single vaccinated pupil present, and several schools had only two or three who were protected from small pox.

FRENCH PREMIER TO OFFER CUT IN FRANCE'S ARMY

Reduction of Land Armaments To Be Brought Before Disarmament Conference at Monday's Meet By French Orator.

Washington, Nov. 21. — This was France's day in the Arms Conference. The third plenary session, meeting at 11 a. m. was to be given over to a speech by Premier Aristide Briand, bringing before the conference the question of land armaments.

Briand, master orator, was ready for one of his greatest efforts. He was out to announce French readiness to reduce her army, now officially stated to number 785,000 armed men, to the lowest figures compatible with national safety.

He was prepared to lay France's case before the assembled jury of the powers, but his speech was to be more than anything else an appeal to the American people to understand and sympathize with France's position.

The French premier was expected to paint a picture of his country menaced by German hate and Russian anarchy, standing as a barrier between Europe and devastating war.

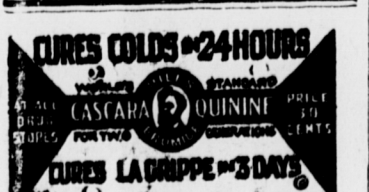

This was to be Briand's final appearance before the Conference. He will leave Washington Tuesday, and will sail this week for Paris.

Briand's speech will bring the land armament question formally before the Conference. Reference of the question to a committee was expected to conclude today's consideration of it.

The British delegation was eager to hear what Briand will say, and to have his speech followed with concrete action. Britain regards the French army as one big reason for a big British navy.

The Italian delegate Schanzer wanted an opportunity to speak on land armaments, as Italy is interested in protection against Jugo-Slavia.

Prospects for complete acceptance of America's sweeping program for limitation of naval armament grew brighter today. Great Britain and the United States virtually were agreed on major details. Indications were England was bringing pressure on Japan to abandon her claim for a navy 70 per cent. as great as the two other powers.
